After bringing in two big corporate partners in April to launch an incubator for financial technology startups, EvoNexus announced another major local partner: UC San Diego's Rady School of Management.

The new program will be used to accelerate FinTech startups developed by Rady's students and alumnae.

"This continued extraordinary partnership of the Rady School with EvoNexus will focus on several mutually strong areas of interest," Rady School of Management Founding Dean Robert Sullivan said in a news release. "They include analytics and data science, finance, and of
